

Adult education and its prominence in latest globe

Dimitris Tsipianitis*

Electrical & Computer Engineering Department, University of Patras, Greece

*Corresponding author. E-mail: sipianitis123@yahoo.com

Received 10 June 2021; Accepted 24 June, 2021; Published 1 July 2021

COMMENTARY

Adult Education

Education is very much necessary for now a generation adults, as without proper education there is no scope for the individual to lead a happy and successful life. In adult education various educational options are consisted by offering mature adults to learn new skills or to develop the skills which they already possess. This education may either be formal, vocational, recreational, social, etc. Many forms can be taken in adult education and can also cover many different subjects. Many adult education programmes are available now-a-days, making it important to choose a high quality programme that aligns with your goals. These programmes should mainly focus on teaching students with important and valuable skills. There are number of advantages to adult education, but the first and foremost is that as a matured age student learning after secondary school, allows adults to develop valuable skills in improving career prospects and expand their professional knowledge.

In adulthood developing literacy and numeracy skills can also give individuals a better ability to reach their potential, so that they will gain confidence to step out of their comfort zones and explore the world. After completion of the adult education many adult students starts to gain additional confidence in their academic skills. Demand in the labour market is growing in recent times and company's now-a-days need more from their employees. Just one degree is no longer enough. Every employee need to know a little bit about everything that is connected to their work. A great way to achieve that is adult education. Fast and easy classes will allow employees to evolve, produce better results, and increase their employability. The main scope of adult education is to level the playing field for adults in professional world. They will have a second chance at a better career or an improvement in their current career, with the access to education

Conclusion

Adult education and non-formal education has supremacy as it helps to grow inside out with maturity level. By developing, one can easily develop a capacity to withhold healthy attitude and even boosts their self-confidence. Also, after gaining adult education and non-formal education, students are allowed to develop valuable skills to improve their career and expand knowledge professionally which will become a key role in their workplace.